How one woman's digital life was WEAPONIZED
against her.

34. Good in the Hood

This paper-thin layer provides extra warmth on chilly days. The fabric retains heat and repels water—it's woven with Pertex Microlight, a material used to insulate sleeping bags. When the sun comes out again, the pullover folds up smaller than a cloth dinner napkin.

Goldwin Hooded Pullover Shirt $275

35. Hipper Slipper

With their natural wool linings and uppers, elastic laces, and squishy yoga mat insoles, these foot-cradling slip-ons mold to your aching dogs. The flexible rubber outsoles are perfect for lazy outdoor wear or just padding around the house.

Time Women's Wool Mid-Top Slippers $130

36.

36. Call Center

Leaving your phone at home usually means paralyzing #fomo. The latest Apple Watch can connect to an LTE cellular data network sans phone, so you'll never miss another text, tweet, or news alert. You can even place a call with it (Dick Tracy fedora optional).

Apple Watch Series 3 With GPS + Cellular $399 and up

37.

37. Rise and Shine

Sitting all day is bad for you, and it's not great for your creativity either. This workstation makes it easy to get the juices flowing. Press a button and a motor raises the surface to your ideal standing height. You can store four preset positions—nice if you need to work up to it in the morning.

Poppin Loft Standing Desk $799
